IN THE ABSTRACT:

Please amend the Abstract of the Disclosure as follows:

A fastening apparatus for use with a closure means device, including a latch configured to receive a catch that is attached to a closure device means, characterised in that the. The latch includes a lever attached to a release mechanism for the fastening apparatus, wherein the The lever extends outwards from the closure means device when the closure means device is held in the open position.